

Joyful Dances in San Giacomo Dall'Orio Square in Venice, Italy

Date : November 8, 2017

Photo by Anamaria Humeres

On Saturday, October 21, 2017, Gyamtsholing, the Dzogchen Community of Venice, Italy organized an afternoon of Khaita Dances in San Giacomo Dall'Orio Square in Venice, thanks to the organization and support of Adriana Dal Borgo.

Since the beginning of October, the Antico Teatro di Anatomia (formerly La Vida Restaurant) situated in the Square has welcomed sessions of Khaita Dances and Kumar Kumari Yantra Yoga free and open to the public in its program of events aimed at celebrating conscious participation in Venetian life.

Photo by Carlos Ramos

On Saturday, October 21, some practitioners met just in front of the Antico Teatro in the large beautiful outdoor space to dance joyfully. Both new dancers and those who already attend the Khaita sessions were involved, as well as passersby who were eager to join the Dances, which gave the group an even more joyful and original look!

An afternoon when “Tibet” captivated beautiful Venice under a calm clear sky!

Sabina Ragaini